

Mitch

The key is to really approach it ... as a team. We are the adults in this child's life who are supposed to be helping him or her to be healthy and productive and make it through their school years in the best way they can. So if we can constantly keep that in mind ... we're all on the same team in this, we're not working at odds with each other.